To Whom It May Concern:

It is my pleasure to pen this reference on behalf of a great one woman show that depicts history, inspires, and entertains. I had the opportunity to see Evolution of a Black Girl: From the Slave House to the White House a few months ago at Virginia Union and was truly impressed by the professionalism of the artist, content of the show, artistic expressions, and talent that exuded from this young woman.

As the Director of Christian Education for the Baptist General Convention, I am passionate about supporting effective educational ventures. Therefore, after seeing this one woman show, I knew that I had to book Ms. McCoy for some of the Baptist General Convention's upcoming activities. Recently, Ms. McCoy came to the BGC's annual session in Roanoke, VA and performed several characters from her show throughout the week. After performing for the youth she gave an inspiring message to our middle and high school students. All of her performances were well received and encouraged us to continue our great work in the community.

It is my belief that all people should have the opportunity to see this phenomenal show and if there is any way you can book the show or help others have the ability to book it, please do so. This production is a benefit for all who see it both young and old. If you have further question please give me a call at 804-228-2421.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Sheryl Blowe-McDowney, M.A.C.E.

Director of Christian Education
